

Design & Specification

Integration & Validation

AI system development requires parallel design and validation activities, with continuous iteration between system engineering and AI model development, from business needs to deployment.