Thales appoints Roger Daix
Vice President, Northern & Central Europe

- Thales appoints Roger Daix as Vice President for the newly established Northern & Central Europe organisation
- Roger Daix will be responsible for driving future growth across Thales business areas

Thales has appointed Roger Daix as Vice President for Northern & Central Europe as of June 1st 2021. In this role, he will be responsible for driving strategic growth within all Thales business areas in the newly established region, which represents around 3,800 employees across 26 countries.

“Roger’s long lasting experience within Thales as head of several major regional organisations will be a real asset for Northern and Central Europe. Under his leadership, Thales aims to consolidate its expanding expertise and footprint to best serve the region’s dynamic civil and defense markets.”

Pascale Sourisse, Senior Executive Vice President, International Development

Prior to this nomination, Roger Daix held the position of VP Thales Middle East since October 2016. In this role, he led the company’s growth in the region and drove the Group’s expansion and longstanding relations within the Middle East. Before this, Roger Daix served as VP Thales Eurasia, after having held several positions in Operations within Thales.

About Thales
